Law for Rich, Poor, Flayed To Save Grant

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Sept. 17.—Governor Len Small's office was literally swamped today by letters, telegrams, and newspaper clippings from all over the country, asking him to save Bernard Grant from the gallows.

The communications came from practically every state in the union and were so numerous that it became necessary to reply to them by form letter than individual answer to each letter as is usually the case.

CLUBS HOLD MASS MEETING FOR YOUTH

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Thousands of persons from all walks of life are signing the pardon petition for Bernard Grant, 19, under sentence of death in connection with a murder.

Attorney Thomas E. Swanson, in charge of the fight to secure mercy for the poverty-stricken boy, announced today.

More than a dozen women's clubs have taken up the fight, Swanson said.

A mass meeting of heads of these clubs was called in Swanson's office for today to adopt resolutions condemning interpretation of the law to favor the right.

Darrow Urged to Fight

They all agreed that if Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, sons of millionaires, are too young to hang, Grant, who is of the same age, but poor, very poor, is too young to hang, Swanson said.

Swanson today formally invited Clarence Darrow, who saved Leopold and Loeb from the gallows for their murder of Bobby Franks, to assist in saving Grant. Darrow, through the United Press, yesterday announced he would take a hand in the fight on his return from his vacation at the Loeb summer home at Charnley, Michigan.

A telegram sent by Swanson to Darrow today follows:

"A Standing Request"

"Your telephone message about the Grant case was received at my office during the Leopold-Loeb trial. I consider you too much occupied than for a conference. Dispatches quote you as saying you would be glad to assist in the Grant case but that your services had not been requested.

There is a standing request for your great aid in every case where oppressed humanity cries out because of injustice. I welcome your assistance in this case in behalf of justice and humanity and shall withhold mailing the petition to the governor until I hear from you."

Swanson said he expected to have 25,000 residents of Chicago and Cook county sign the petition.

Major Diver of Chicago has sent a pardon resolution to the council asking that it be adopted and sent to Governor Small.

The petition of Mrs. Thompson charges that Shawkey promised in St. Louis on June 7 to marry her but that he has refused to carry out his alleged promise.

Shawkey denies the charges, saying he is engaged to another woman whose name he refuses to give and said Mrs. Thompson was "looking for some easy money."

But No Decision Is Reached By Commission

Commission, Body Representing Fair Come to Terms Following Conference at City Hall Today

Prince of Wales to Leave America Sunday

SYOSSETT, L. I., Sept. 17.—Appointed at the showing made by the British horsemen in the international polo matches, the Prince of Wales prepared today to run the gamut of his few remaining social obligations and depart for Canada on Sunday.

Although the polo which attracted his royal highness to "the states" was a failure from the British viewpoint, Wales has had "no end of a good time," and learned a lot of quaint American customs.

The most important result of the conference was that the commission finally agreed, after arguing back and forth with the committee, to pay $200 of the extra bill for electric light and power to be incurred during the five days of celebration. The commission first refused to pay any part of the bill as a counter proposal to the committee's suggestion that $300 be paid, but in succession the commission advanced to $150, to $175 and $200, and here Major Logan and Commissioners Wade and Wiley balked despite Burge's plea to split the difference at $250.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 17.—The American Legion goes to Omaha in 1925 according to the official vote taken today.

The vote was Omaha 512; Fort Worth 441.

The contest was between these two cities.

The Legion nation turned its attention to internal politics after a new convention city had been chosen.

Ohio organized a boom for John McGivern of Cleveland for national commander. A steering committee was carrying on a secretive campaign to line up delegations.

Bon for Draw

Less pretentious, but no less carefully conducted was the District of Columbia boom for James A. Drain, commander of the department of the District of Columbia.

As a result additional stimulus was given the event, the only foursome entered by the fair board being that the facilities offered by the Pleasure Pier, where it will be held, will fail to accommodate demands on it for space.

This, however, is a promising omen," President Gifford said. "The fair committee is imbued with enthusiasm at assurances of support.

We have secured one of the best amusement companies in the country, and the diversified features of the first year will set a pace for future years."

Add Exhibit Space

An added exhibit building, 40 by 125 feet, will be built on the Pleasure Pier following action by the committee last night. It will be permanent in nature, adequately equipped, with more than enough lighting facilities to accommodate the value of exhibits to night visitors.

Decision also was made to issue season fair tickets at 10 for a $1.25, which brings the admission cost to purchasers to what fair officials declared was the ridiculously low cost of 12 and a half cents for each day and night. Single admissions will be 25 cents.

Catalogues of prize awards and general information was out today.

These will be mailed out to the public, many of them finding their way to remote points. They can be obtained by application to the Chamber of Commerce. They also will be available at the office of President F. E. Gifford and at Port Arthur business houses.

PEARCE THEATER IS HOST TO 30 NEWSBOYS

Thirty route and street sales boys for The News were guests of the Holton Theater at the Pearce Tuesday night.

The picture was "The Cyclone Rider," and the juvenile salesmen pronounced it a huge success. A special section was given the youngsters by the theater management, and the boys followed the thrilling plot with bated breath.

No decision was made, although La-

Rose engaged in conversation with the commissioners after the meeting. Baker offered to go into details on the specifications of his Dodge Brothers truck.

WOMAN DISMISSED ON MURDER CHARGE

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Diziet, 57 years old, was freed of a murder charge here today and the case against her dismissed. Mrs. Diziet was arrested yesterday after shooting to death her husband who she claimed, attacked her while drunk.

Contract with H. O. Mills to lease year for $20 was signed by the city commission this morning.

This Job of Being Prince Is Not What It's Said to Be, After All, Girls!

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Had the Prince of Wales lived in the year 1620 he probably would have bought a one-way passage on one of the Mayflower Line vessels plying between Plymouth and Southampton.

He thinks as much of Americans as Americans think of themselves, and that's a pretty high compliment for us.

These, and other facts, are gleaned from a highly confidential but reliable source. The prince won't talk for publication on what he thinks of Americans, but to intimate friends he unburdens himself freely.

Why, if he had his choice, according to our informant, he'd rather live over here than over there. Americans have more zip and pep than Britons, he thinks. He calls it "Yankee business," their directness and their utter freedom from fear of convention."

He has quite a bit to say about the American girl. So gather 'round girls and get an earful!

The American girl is a more interesting talker than the British girl, he is quoted as having said. She doesn't limit her talk to dress and parlor small talk. She doesn't talk about how much she weighs, at least the girls on Long Island don't.

She can discuss politics, art and literature. She is familiar with the classics of the stage and she even knows that Abie's Irish Rose isn't a flop, but a goldmine.

On only one occasion, to our informant's knowledge, has the prince expressed himself on dress. He shocked his British listeners by saying he thought the American girl dressed more neatly and effectively than the British girl.

He feels more at home with some Americans he is meeting for the first time than he does with many Britons he has

Liquor charge pending against him in federal court here when he was arrested with Theriot.

Bourque stated that with Theriot and Whitney Norris he drove to the Bordeaux place on the West Port

Arthur road on the day of the killing.

Bourque went in the house and left

Norris and Theriot in the car, he said. He said he did not leave the house until after he had heard shot fired. Three other shots were then fired in rapid succession. Bourque said he asked Norris at the time why he killed Theriot, and that Norris replied that he had "lied to him."

Norris Takes Stand

J. E. Grammer, Port Arthur undertaker, was next placed on the stand.

He described the wounds on the body of Theriot and following his testimony, witnesses for the defense were introduced.

Whitney Norris, the defendant, testified that he was 22 years of age and for the past three years had been employed at the Gulf refinery in Port Arthur. He stated that he had been raised at New Iberia, La., and had been married four years and was the father of one child, a little girl about one year old.

He declared that he had known

Garfield Theriot, his first cousin, and whom he is charged with killing, all his life.

He was first warned of Theriot's visit to his home during his absence by his brother, Norris said. He then declared that he asked Theriot about visits to his home when he was away, but that Theriot denied improper visits. Norris declared that his wife's attitude changed toward him and some time later there was a separation.

Quarrel Over Loan Described

About a week before the killing Mrs.

Norris made an attempt to have the child placed at the Day Nursery and was unable to have it taken care of at that institution, testimony showed.

She then went to Louisiana and left it there. Norris testified that he found the child was in Louisiana and went after it. He brought the little girl back to Port Arthur to his mother who has since cared for it.

At the time Norris went to Louisiana, Garfield Theriot loaned him $20 to make the trip, since he was short of money, testimony showed. It was on Sunday, the day of the killing, that Theriot broached the subject of the loan to Norris. Norris stated at the time he told Theriot that he had no money then, but as soon as he could see his wife, he could get some of it back. He stated that he and his wife had saved up $275 and that she had a handful of the money from the bank.

Theriot replied, "Your wife hasn't got any money, she gave it to me," according to Norris' testimony. Then

Norris said he told Theriot that he supposed what people had been saying about him was so. Theriot then told

Norris that he was with Mrs. Norris on the Thursday preceding and that he would be with her the next time

Norris saw him, Norris testified.

Mrs. Norris to Testify

It was then, according to Norris, that Theriot made a movement towards his gun and both stepped out of the car. The shooting followed and

Norris drove into Port Arthur and gave himself up to the police. Norris testified that Theriot had been indicted for assault to murder and was afraid of him.

Mrs. Whitney Norris will take the stand later and is expected to be one of the most important witnesses for the defense.

Selection of a jury was completed yesterday afternoon. The 12 men who are bearing the case include John

Burkhart, Magnolia refinery employee,

Beaumont; R. C. Sawyer, barber from

Port Arthur; B. E. Bigelow, Port

Neches, refinery employee; C. W.

WIFE ARRESTED IN AX MURDER

Pittsburgh Woman Is Held
By Police

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Mary Chafau, 22 years old, is being held here by police today in connection with the death of her husband, Frank, 31 years old, who was found murdered in his bed, apparently hacked to death. A bloodstained hatchet was found on the floor.

The wife told police she found the body when she returned from visiting her physician.

Two brothers and a sister of Mrs. Chafau and her father also were detained.

RUMORED MERGER

ominous report to the Interstate Commerce commission grouping all United States systems with recommendations that for economic, service and operating reasons each group should be under common operation, not yet has become law. But there appears, traffic men contend, to be a tacit permission for such mergers based, they say, on presumption that it shall be some law.

Example of this is found in the recent approval by the I. C. C. of Gulf Coast lines of the International and Great Northern, it was brought out, would favor New Orleans. Galveston rail lines in group 19 are the Missouri Pacific, Texas and Pacific, International and Great Northern, Kansas City Southern and Gulf Coast lines.

Approval of merger of the Gulf Coast and I. G. N. was on a tentative basis, traffic men declared today, will definitely follow if the Missouri and Gulf Coast merger is finally approved.

One phase, but not the least as constituting a menace to Sabine Ports is the fact that by elimination of competition in north and south bound traffic New Orleans and Galveston become favored ports on a split basis contemplating division of export traffic at Beaumont equally east to New Orleans and west to Galveston. When this happens, Sabine district ports, with its millions in waterways will become a transportation football, victim of every discrimination possible through such a division, traffic men contend.

An element of mystery shadows the proposal since two known groups of rail financiers in federal warfare for years must be factors.

K. C. S. Position in Doubt.

"The railroads themselves may or may not be amenable to such a plan, but if one of them is, consolidation becomes no barrier in the face of banking resources," one traffic man declared. "In the Gulf Coast merger proposal by which it is the object to include the I. and G. N. it was done by buying stock sufficient to give the line control."

"In the case of the Missouri Pacific and the Kansas City Southern this likewise could be done."

Position of the Kansas City Southern in the matter is somewhat in doubt. It is construed, however, that merger with the Missouri Pacific would be seriously objected to by its controlling interests.

This, it is claimed, is by reason of the fact that the Texarkana and Fort Smith subsidiary of the K. C. S. is one of the most profitable, if not the most profitable line in the United States, each year piling up profits ranging roughly from $300 to $500 per cent on its original capitalization.

Such a situation would supply every need for a protest by the K. C. S., traffic men say, since under merger deficits or operating costs of a less favored line would constitute a drain on the T. & F. S. earnings.

From an economic standpoint, Ripley's report favors such group amalgamations because of savings possible in overhead costs incident to divisional heads, reduction in shops and roundhouses and other facilities which necessary to the operation of one line could just as well be utilized by more.

From a railway operating standpoint this is held by Ripley to be justified. But it is one which, in the case of the Sabine District, will operate in penalizing a rich and resourceful region at the expense of ports already congested far beyond capacity at various seasons of the year, traffic men declare.

neers for the Galveston district, took the association on a trip up a portion of the completed Intra-Coastal canal, on the government yacht Zeeland.

Sabine district ports will have a comprehensive exhibit at the Southern Exposition in New York in January detailing its resources if endorsement of the association is followed by its several communities. This exhibit would be part of a general exhibit to be entered by Texas, and represents a real opportunity for Sabine ports and centers to get in the national limelight, the association declared.

The recommendation likewise is passed to the association's advertising committee for detailed action on a general scheme which contemplates reservation of approximately 400 acres of land in the Galveston area.

One phase, but not the least as constituting a menace to Sabine Ports is the fact that by elimination of competition in north and south bound traffic New Orleans and Galveston become favored ports on a split basis contemplating division of export traffic at Beaumont equally east to New Orleans and west to Galveston. When this happens, Sabine district ports, with its millions in waterways will become a transportation football, victim of every discrimination possible through such a division, traffic men contend.

An element of mystery shadows the proposal since two known groups of rail financiers in federal warfare for years must be factors.

"In the case of the Missouri Pacific and the Kansas City Southern this likewise could be done."

Position of the Kansas City Southern in the matter is somewhat in doubt. It is construed, however, that merger with the Missouri Pacific square feet of floor space for the Sabine district. This could be utilized in exhibits showing shipping and waterways resources, oil, industrial plants, lumber, firs, rice and a score of others, it was brought out.

Endorse Canal Lighting

Secretary Art Burge, in bringing the matter before the meeting, called attention to the fact that designation of January for the exposition was a timely one, since in that month New York railroad statistics show that 250,000 people residing in every state and community in the union visit New York daily, these including buyers, dealers, representatives of firms making financial arrangements for the incoming years and others.

The association likewise endorsed proposal for lighting facilities along the canal and increased lighting facilities off the bar. Superintendent Lanphier in charge of the lighthouses at New Orleans a few days ago conducted an inspection of the canal and his approval and recommendation for an appropriation will follow, the meeting was informed.

After 11 o'clock one regular policeman and two special officers, the latter hired by the fair, will be on duty, it was agreed. Ample police protection for parking cars will be furnished. Chief Covington told the committee, Chief LaRose will keep a fire truck on the pier with two firemen. The fair will pay extra cost of operating the pier bridge.

City Engineer Herpin was also instructed to repair the streets leading to the pier and to cut the weeds off the side of the roadway.

The fair association has already spent $250 in remodeling the old picture show building, which will be the women's building, housing also educational and flower exhibits. The new $1000 building will be immediately adjacent to the picture show building about 100 feet from the pavilion. Any increase in insurance rate on the pavilion caused by the new structure will be borne by the city, Mayor Logan said.

Burge Details Plans

"We are planning for some strong man with a national reputation to open the fair," Burge told the commission. "Fare and one-third rates have been granted on the railroads and we expect many visitors. Merchants will be benefited by the exhibits, and we want to get people out of the notion that they have to go to Beaumont to buy things. We want to sell Port Arthur to Port Arthur."

Amusement features will be furnished by the Dodson's World shows, who visited in Port Arthur about nine years ago. Seventeen shows and seven riding devices in 30 cars with 280 employees make up this show company, Burge said. The Dodson concern is now showing in Texarkana.

that the city pay the entire electric light and power bill and later cut down their suggestion to $300, the mayor answered with a story about the troubles of keeping a city of $40,000 going with only a rendition of $28,000.

"We should have $400,000 a year in these various departments, where we have only $280,000. You should be over a while, gentlemen, to appreciate how we have to split dollars and cents."

From then on the dickering started, with seven or eight propositions suggested before the commission finally stood fast on paying $200 of the bill.

WHY THIS BANK RECOMMENDS LIFE INSURANCE

This is another of a series of advertisements by Employees of the First National Bank. Others will follow. Watch for them.

By A. C. REICHLE

This bank does not sell life insurance nor does it secure any direct benefit from the sale of life insurance. What ever reason we have for recommending it is based on our good wishes for the welfare of others.

The one sure thing in the lives of all of us is that our lives will end. And when our lives have ended, it often leaves us or our business and financial affairs in a more or less tangled state.

It is often necessary to make big sacrifices in selling property, because of a pressing need for cash.

Most young men need an incentive to save money. Life insurance offers a very simple solution to this problem. The earlier one takes out a policy the better. The fact that a young man is unmarried and has no dependents, is a good reason for taking out a policy. The premiums are lower and it is easier to pay them while responsibilities are few.

We regard it as a man's immediate duty to provide himself with life insurance.

"Am I mad? I really do not know. Doubtless I am clever in certain directions my talent has enabled me to cut a figure in my profession in London."

"But a man may, like Don Quixote, be clever enough to cut a figure and yet be stark mad. A critic has described me, with deadly acuteness, as having 'a kindly dislike of my fellow creatures.' Perhaps dread would have been nearer the mark than dislike: for man is the only animal of which I am thoroughly and bravely afraid. I have never thought much of the courage of a lion tamer."

"Inside the cage he is at least safe from other men. There is not much harm in a lion. He has no ideals, no religion, no politics, no chivalry, no gentility, in short no reason for destroying anything that he does not want to eat."

"At least, if I am sane, the rest of the world ought not to be at large. We cannot both see things as they really are."

The question must have occurred to every man whether he is wholly sane or not. Doubtless if the acts and opinions of any one of us were set down accurately he would have hard work to explain his sanity.

This is because no man is ever wholly consistent. In the first place, growth and advancement are fatal to consistency. Just where the line is to be drawn renders every man anti-social in his tendency, if so dangerous that he should be locked up it is hard to say.

It will be a question that it will be impossible for statutes to define, but must always remain for the jury to determine.

Perhaps in the formation of its opinion the jury should not be allowed to receive the testimony of a man's intimates, particularly his wife. No man is sane to his valet; at least he is always peculiar.

NEW YORK. Sept. 17.—She is petite and attractive, her black bobbed hair scarcely showing above the stand at which she sells cigars, cigarettes and books at an uptown hotel stand.

Always pleasant, demure and obliging, there with a glint of sadness in her shifting eyes, a hint of a hidden sorrow.

For months I have been a patron at the stand. The other evening she introduced me to a bright boy, 19 years old, as polished and gentlemanly as any young man I ever have met in New York.

He was her son. She appears young enough to be his sweetheart in these days of May and December romances. The father is dead.

The son recently was graduated from a fashionable prep school and this fall will enter college.

Through the years this young mother (she is only 35) has labored that her son might have an education. Her identity has always been kept secret. She has not been able even to visit him at his school during the winter months.

It would never do for son's school authorities or his companions to know that his mother is a cigar clerk," she explained.

Recently they went in search of an apartment that they might spend the summer months together.

Always it was the same look of astonishment in the eyes of building superintendents. "They couldn't be mother and son," and so the answer always was "we have no apartments." She returns to selling cigars and he goes away to college.

'DON'T FAIL TO ATTEND SCHOOL'

BY LEWIS A. KALBACH
Assistant U. S. Commissioner of Education

At the opening of another school year the United States Bureau of Education sends greetings to all school children throughout the United States.

Upon the proper education of the children of today will depend the progress and safety of our country in the future. You should, therefore, make full use of the educational facilities provided, so you may receive the best and broadest education possible.

You should aim to attend regularly from the beginning to the end of the term and remain in school as many years as possible.

We are now spending more than one and one-half billion dollars yearly on schools in the United States, and a considerable part of that sum is practically wasted on account of irregular attendance of pupils.

Again we urge you to go to school regularly.

Education pays in dollars and cents as well as in other ways.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The "Nervous Wreck," an eccentric young easterner is driving Sally Morgan from her father's ranch to the station when they run out of gasoline. At the point of a gun the Wreck takes five gallons from a passing car.

They are held captive at a ranch owned by one of the men whom they held up. They finally escape into a camp of bandits, then escape again. Fleeing from the bandit camp, they suddenly are confronted by Sheriff Bob Wells. Sally faints at the head of a posse searching for the bandits. Angry, Sally breaks off her engagement with the sheriff and says she is going to marry the Wreck. The Wreck has compelled the sheriff and his men to roll his car onto level ground. "Now I'll get you home in no time," the Wreck tells Sally.

He puzzled over that, got no sense out of it, but became suddenly contrite.

Milady's Trim Ankle Will Be Clad in Light Hosiery Despite Edict of Fashion

THE hosiery mode of the last two seasons has taught smart women to wear this, that, and the other shade, no two alike, in rapid succession as the better shops have offered them; and now the creators of the hosiery mode are left with the problem on their hands of satisfying the women whose mind they have taught to expect a new shade every time she shops and who is not prepared to settle upon any two or three or half dozen shades of stockings and wear them habitually, but who would gravitate from the new to the accustomed, the extreme to the conservative, as the fancy strikes her.

Who shall say to this woman, who has been so over-indulged in the matter of shades with which to clothe her ankles: "Madame, you must choose between gunmetal and black, with a possible alternative of one or two deep browns, and so forget at once all past favorites?" Who shall attempt to change in an instant the mind of a woman who turned a disapproving eye to nude hose for nearly a year after all Paris clothed its ankles to match its neck and arms in color? American women are creatures of habit!

A mode is not a mode until, by general acceptance, women make it so. And perhaps this is why, after deep consideration and discussion of black and gunmetal as successors to the dozen most popular tan-to-brown shades that are in such excellent taste as well as such excellent favor at the moment, manufacturers and fashion experts apparently have determined to add sheer black, gunmetal and the three or four most attractive "shade colors" to the most important of the present tan and brown shades, and call it a mode.

Women of discrimination, it seems, will be divided between those who match shade and those and those who, like the French woman whenever she can be gotten to forsake her idolized "nude shades," repeats in her stockings the exact color of her costume. For the first mentioned there are the "leather shades," which means hose dyed to match leather that has been decided upon by the entire group of shoe manufacturers as correct for autumn shoes. Among these are: Racquet and bracken, two medium tones; bunny, a reddish brown; stone gray and rose taupe.

Those who continue to wear the strapped type of shoe will find that it appears to advantage when worn with a slightly lighter shade of hose. These women will probably choose their color from the tan-to-brown range or one of the especially attractive rust shades that are to be favorites of the new season, and wear hose to exactly match.

It must not be forgotten that nude is still extremely smart—in fact, one might almost say smarter than anything else. By nude, one means the shade that best matches one's hands and face, whether it be a delicate peach, a beige, or a wood tan. The mauve-tinted nude shade that is being so much worn for evenings, in Paris, will be extremely good for autumn and winter evening wear here.

A delightful affair of Tuesday evening was the charming rook party, which had as hostess Mrs. Theo. Juraschek at her home in the Gulf Refinery Park.

Two tables of players enjoyed the fascinating diversion of rook amid an environment made attractive with a profusion of rose, xenia and coral vine, clustered in graceful arrangement about the rooms and suggesting a color motif of pink and white. The chosen theme was also displayed in the card table appointments.

For success in the games, Mrs. James Burnin was awarded a lovely trophy, and Mrs. R. E. Lashly cut consolation. A dainty ice course, featuring the pink and white theme, was offered by the hostess at the close of the games. Mrs. Juraschek was assisted in serving by her daughter, Miss Katherine Juraschek.

Maine went "hell bent" for the republicans. Maine usually goes "hell bent" for the republicans. There has been only two or three democratic governors since 1856. Before the birth of the republican party Maine went "hell bent" for know nothings in two elections.

Maine gave Warren G. Harding 46,000 four years ago. Maine gave Percival C. Baxter 28,000 majority for governor two years ago. Maine polled the largest vote in its history on September election day. Maine republicans elected their senator by 50,000 majority and their governor by more than 30,000. Ralph O. Brewster is the republican victor for the office of governor. He defeated Richard P. Pattangall.

This newspaper in a forecast of the Maine election said that the voters of Maine voted as their fathers voted, worshiped the God that their fathers worshipped, had ever been loyal to the republican party and would remain loyal this year. After the ballots had been counted this prediction was verified.

Brewster had the backing of the Klansmen in Maine. He did not deny this. He said he was not a klansman, never had been a klansman and that every vote cast for the republican nominee would be a vote cast for Coolidge and Dawes and the policies of the republican party. More than ninety leading republican orators from other states campaigned in Maine. Maine republicans are for a high tariff. There are many democrats in Maine who are for a high tariff.

The question must have occurred to every man whether he is wholly sane or not. Doubtless if the acts and opinions of any one of us were set down accurately we would have hard work to explain his sanity.

This is because no man is every wholly consistent. In the first place, growth and advancement are fatal to consistency. Just where the line is to be drawn renders every man anti-social in his tendency, if so dangerous that he should be locked up in it is hard to say.

It will be a question that it will be impossible for statutes to define, but must always remain for the jury to determine.

Perhaps in the formation of its opinion the jury should not be allowed to receive the testimony of a man's intimates, particularly his wife. No man is sane to his valet; at least he is always peculiar.

DON'T FAIL TO ATTEND SCHOOL'

BY LEWIS A. KALBACH

Assistant U. S. Commissioner of Education

At the opening of another school year the United States Bureau of Education sends greetings to all school children throughout the United States.

Upon the proper education of the children of today will depend the progress and safety of our country in the future. You should, therefore, make full use of the educational facilities provided, so you may receive the best and broadest education possible.

You should aim to attend regularly from the beginning to the end of the term and remain in school as many years as possible.

We are now spending more than one and one-half billion dollars yearly on schools in the United States, and a considerable part of that sum is practically wasted on account of irregular attendance of pupils.

Again we urge you to go to school regularly.

Education pays in dollars and cents as well as in other ways.

Mrs. Solomon

By Wallace M. Bayliss
If we should start to talk of King Sol's queen

Some smartly would pipe up, "Which do you mean?"

King Solomon, you see, had many wives,

A lot more than a Thomas cat has lives.

He had three thousand of them, ancient state;

Perhaps that was an off-hand estimate.

There's no denying that he had a lot.

But was he happy with them? I'll say no.

To illustrate: One day Wife Eighty-four.

Got by the guards placed at the throne room door.

And gold: "Say, Sol, I want a new spring hat."

Said Sol: "Hi, hi! Fat chance you have for that."

I like you, but if I get one for you, I'll have to buy three thousand others, too.

I'm sorry, girlie, but you'll have to wait;

A heavy note falls due ten days from date."

"Boo hoo!" she bawled, and as though signaled to.

Three thousand female voices wailed, "Boo hoo!"

If you who have to meet one wife's demands

Think you have got a tough job on your hands,

Give thanks that you are not King Solomon.

Three thousand times worse off than my son.

Overhead Charges

A young man walking down the street saw a sign in a show window reading: "Umbrellas Re-Covered." He entered the store and approaching the saleswoman said: "I understand that you recover umbrellas."

"Yes, we do. Do you want yours re-covered?"

"Yes, I will give $2 to the person that recovers the umbrella that I lost six months ago."

Cook: "Yes ma'am. His works for the General Transfer Company."

Milady's Trim Ankle Will Be Clad in Light Hosiery Despite Edict of Fashion

THE hosiery mode of the last two seasons has taught smart women to wear this, that, and the other shade, no two alike, in rapid succession as the better shops have offered them; and now the creators of the hosiery mode are left with the problem on their hands of satisfying the women whose mind they have taught to expect a new shade every time she shops and who is not prepared to settle upon any two or three or half dozen shades of stockings and wear them habitually, but who would gravitate from the new to the accustomed, the extreme to the conservative, as the fancy strikes her.

Who shall say to this woman, who has been so over-indulged in the matter of shades with which to clothe her ankles: "Madame, you must choose between gunmetal and black, with a possible alternative of one or two deep browns, and so forget at once all past favorites?" Who shall attempt to change in an instant the mind of a woman who turned a disapproving eye to nude hose for nearly a year after all Paris clothed its ankles to match its neck and arms in color? American women are creatures of habit!

A mode is not a mode until, by general acceptance, women make it so. And perhaps this is why, after deep consideration and discussion of black and gunmetal as successors to the dozen most popular tan-to-brown shades that are in such excellent taste as well as excellent favor at the moment, manufacturers and fashion experts apparently have determined to add sheer black, gunmetal and the three or four most attractive "shoe colors" to the most important of the present tan and brown shades, and call it a mode.

Women of discrimination, it seems, will be divided between those who match shoe and hose and those who, like the French woman whenever she can get to forsake her idealized "nude shades," repeats in her stockings the exact color of her costume. For the first mentioned there are the "leather shades," which means hose dyed to match leather that has been decided upon by the entire group of shoe manufacturers as correct for autumn shoes. Among these are: Racquet and bracken, two medium fans; bunny, a reddish brown; stone gray and rose taupe.

Those who continue to wear the strapped type of shoe will find that it appears to advantage when worn with a slightly lighter shade of hose. These women will probably choose their color from the tan-to-brown range or one of the especially attractive rust shades that are to be favorites of the new season, and wear hose to exactly match.

It must not be forgotten that mode is still extremely smart—in fact, one might almost say smarter than anything else. By mode, one means the shade that best matches one's hands and face, whether it be a delicate peach, a beige, or a wood tan. The mauve-tinted nude shade that is being much worn for evenings, in Paris, will be extremely good for autumn and winter evening wear here.

Ears are back in style.

They will be worn on the outside this winter, and the forehead will be modestly draped.

For years and years the female ear has been discreetly hidden beneath a hunk of hair. But now the National Hairdressers' Association has delivered an edict that the ear is to be seen as well as heard with.

One thousand strong at their convention at Atlantic City, the hairdressers declared that a change is bound to come—a change that will result in sural appendages once more emerging into view on the gentler sex.

This will be welcome news to the jewelry trade, for visible ears inevitably means earrings. So there we are.

Miss Mildred Ball of New York, in the accompanying picture, illustrates one of the approved styles of hair dressing and shows what a woman's ear looks like, now that it has been forgotten for so long.

Just in passing, the hairdressers predict "more and better" hair. For those who, like Miss Ball, still sport the bob, there will be switches known as "transformations."

Household Suggestions

SALT CORROSION

The silver tops of salt shakers are frequently corroded by the action of the salt on silver. To prevent this heat paraffin and spread on the inside and while the paraffin is cooling open the holes with a toothpick.

PLenty of Ammonia

Use plenty of ammonia and washing powder in the water in which you clean your oil mop.

CLEANING ENAMELEDWARE

A paste of salt and vinegar will clean enamelware that has become discolored.

USP RAW POTATO

Remove mud stains from cloth by rubbing with a raw potato.

TO FRY BACON

Soak bacon in cold water for three or four minutes before you fry it.

REMOVES FISH ODOR

To remove the odor of fish from a frying pan put in vinegar and heat until it is scalding. Then wash in the usual manner and the odor will be gone.

HAND HEMSTITCHING

If you are doing hand hemstitching you will find that the threads in linen will pull much easier if you run a damp piece of cloth along the line where the hem is to be made.

TO STIFFEN BRUSHES

To stiffen brushes after you have washed them, dip them in equal parts of water and milk and dry before the fire.

APPLY DRY SOAP

Use soap drawers that stick need only an application of dry soap to make them slip without any trouble.

FATAL MISTAKE

WIFE—The servant has thrown up her position because you were so rude to her on the telephone.

HUSBAND—Oh, I thought I was talking to you.—Kasper (Stockholm).

NO MATTER

GIDE—In this room the ear was mured.

VISITOR—But you told us that in quite a different room last year,

GIDE—Yes, but that one is being repaired now.

Like all my friends on the stage and in the movies, I use very costly powders. I have them made to my order, and they cost me $5 per box. Our careers depend on our looks, and nothing, and nothing, is more costly.

Edna Wallace Hopper is no exception. But I have persuaded the makers to offer these powders at ordinary prices. I order them in quantities, under my name. I offer them at my expense to girls and women who desire the best.

Now all drugists and toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Powders. There are two kinds. For myself I prefer a clinging powder, a cold cream powder, based on my Youth Cream. It is enduring. The Youth Cream Powder costs $1. But many women prefer a light and fluffy powder. If you want that kind, it costs 50 cents. Both kinds come in three shades—white, flesh and brunette.

So far as I know, these powders are the finest in existence. You may be sure that if anyone produced a better powder I would get it quickly. Anyone who uses common powders will gain a new conception of what powders should be.

Let me send you a sample. Just mail this coupon and tell me the kind you want.

SEPT-21 TO BE RALLY DAY

Christian Church to Go After All Members

Sunday, Sept. 21 has been designated as Rally Day in the First Christian Sunday school.

The slogan for Sunday is "Every Member in Bible School," and Bible school workers are working to have a record attendance on this occasion. Every member of the church and of the entire Bible school is urged by Mrs. H. B. Stanley, superintendent, to be present Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

The Men's Bible class will meet at the Strand theater at 9:30 o'clock and will have their own opening and closing exercises.

Attendance of 340

The First Christian Sunday school has averaged about 340 per Sunday during June, July and August, according to Sunday school officials, who said that the average for August, while the pastor was away on his vacation, was 328 per Sunday. The average for September will be far above the 400 mark and it is believed by the officials of the Sunday school that by the end of October the average will surpass the 500 mark. The average attendance at present is more than double what it was a year ago.

The Young Peoples class has recently elected new officers and a vigorous campaign is being launched for new members. The Women's class has perhaps maintained the most consistent average of any class in the entire school. Their attendance is now hovering close to the 100 mark each Sunday.

There were royal guests, including Queen Elizabeth, lately of Greece, the former Kaiser's sister and others of his kin, but the wedding was without pomp. It was solemnized within the quiet, covered walls of dignified old Salem, Prince Max's feudal estate.

BROADWAY MAID ROBBED OF GEMS

'Madame Babe,' Companion Slugged Insensible

NEW YORK. Sept. 17.—Another girl has come out of the west, received Broadway's largesse and paid Broadway's price. Edith Weeks, late of Detroit, nursed a cut and bruised face from which three teeth were missing and wondered today if it was all worth while.

Edith is the "Madame Babe" of New York's latest sensational jewel robbery, of which the perpetrators remain unapprehended. She and Robert L. Hague, marine superintendent of the Standard Oil company, were beaten senseless Monday night and robbed of gems worth nearly $100,000.

Chance Spared Life

Only chance decreed that "Madame Babe" was spared the fate that overtook "Dot" King and Louise Lawson, other moths around the white light district's flame who enjoyed the patronage of wealthy men and paid with their lives for success in their chosen profession.

Two years ago Edith Weeks brought a pretty figure, a fact that is called "attractive" and an indomitable determination to succeed, to Broadway from her home in Detroit.

Her start was humble enough; the cloak and suit trade offered an opening. Edith's persistence and a flair for leadership did the rest. In a few short years she was "Madame Babe" with an expensive shop and an expensive home in that part of the upper east side which is fashionable.

Dominating Type

The girls from Detroit was gone and in her place was a svelte, domineering Parisienne, who mingled with her clients on terms of equality and entertained them on a lavish scale in her exotic home.

Count Von Bernstoff was among her male escorts in the old days and another count, Salim Van Hoogstraten, who married Millicent Rogers, filled a niche in her later life. Actresses and actors knew her familiarly as "Babe," which they pronounced as though it rhymed with abode.

There was an extravagant birthday party at Edith's extraordinary home Saturday night. Through the extravagantly decorated rooms with their Louis Quince furniture—the bedroom held an extraordinary gilt brocaded and upholstered bed on a raised dias—and the laughter of 90 guests and the popping of corks sounded until dawn.

Edith Reprimanded

Edith was reprimanded and promised the landlord, to be good, for she said she was going to marry Robert Hague, who played host at her birthday party. He gave her a diamond bracelet with 432 round diamonds and 100 lesser stones, an ermine coat worth $4,000, a gold clock and some other trinkets.

Monday night, when Edith and her fiance were out for the evening a "man from the drugstore" appeared at the barred grill entrance of "Madame Babe's" home with a package. A negro maid, after some hesitancy, admitted him. The "package" proved a black jack. The maid went to sleep. The man had accomplices and admitted them. They ransacked the unusual boudoir and bar and workshop of Edith Weeks and sat down to an orgy of wine and cigars to await her return.

Returned Early

Edith and Hague returned early—about half past eleven. As the front door yielded to the turn of her little gold key, a muscular man standing in the shadows of the hallway made a swipe with a black jack, which was meant to crush on her bobbed curls. His aim was bad and the weapon cut a gash in one of the plump cheeks and knocked out three teeth.

Another blow put her escort out of commission.

Edith fought like a tigress. She was hurled against a $1,000 lamp which crashed to ruin. A thug took her by her throat and beat her head against a priceless vase. The men tore the new bracelet worth $10,000 from her dimpled arm and took rings and baubles worth a king's ransom neglecting Hague's watch and cigarette case and "roll."

There have been few clues unearthed. It is believed that some of the guests at Edith's birthday party were inspired to perpetrate the robbery, for she numbered among her close acquaintances a few who were quite capable of it.

SATURATION POINT

Just as soon as motor car sales do not meet a dealer's expectations, he begins to talk of the saturation point, and forgets that the drop in sales has been due to the fact that he has quit working. Most cars today must be sold and that means work. The public will no longer issue an invitation to be sold, but the dealer must set the stage to make the sale. By setting the stage we mean he must work, locate the prospect, and sell him before a competitor does.

As long as the dealer can locate prospects, there can not be any such condition as saturation. It may, however, be viewed from another angle, for an over-ambitious factory organization may saturate the dealer, and this is especially true when the dealer permits the factory representative to write his orders. The dealer should follow the examples of his prospects "make the factory sell him in his quota."—Editorial in Automobile Digest.

BISHOP MOORE WILL SPEAK AT LIVINGSTON

LUFKIN. Sept. 17.—Bishop John M. Moore of Dallas, who has charge of practically all of the Methodist churches in Texas and a portion of Oklahoma, is to deliver a sermon in Livingston, Monday evening, September 20, at the Methodist church. This will be the first time a bishop ever visited the Livingston church. Bishop Moore is making an effort to visit as many churches as possible before the convening of the Texas conference at Mt. Pleasant, November 25.

Hogan's Alley Still Laughs at Dry Sleuths

ECORSE, Mich., Sept. 17.—Hijackers' paradise down in Hogan's Alley here wriggles a derisive thumb to the end of its whisky-tinted nose.

The alley is laughing its head off at the spite-upts of Uncle Sam and the state authorities to stem its $2,000,000 weekly traffic in Canadian booze with the aid of armed patrols.

Hogan's Alley is the rendezvous of the country's biggest bootleg ring.

It has no conscience and enforces its commands with ever-ready automatics.

The alley intends to stand its ground.

Down along the waterfront you can see where the alley does its business. A long array of rat-infested shacks house the vassals of the ring.

It is here Detroit's "blind-pig" proprietors come to place their orders for the "stuff." They always pay cold cash. The alley allows no credit.

Swift motor boats, answering code signals from the "other side," do the hauling.

But the booze may be delivered from any landing point within 100 miles.

Breaking up the alley's operations is proving a formidable task.

State troopers, deputy sheriffs and squads of other law enforcement officers assigned to the job admit this.

Their efforts have slowed up the traffic a little. But the flood still continues.

Instead of landing at Ecorse as heretofore, the ring simply does its business there and makes deliveries at Grosse Point and Anchor Bay. Likewise, there are countless inlets where motorboats can anchor and remain unseen.

The ring knows these places and is safe from pursuit after reaching the shallower waters.

Down in the alley, where rummers' gold is the lure, life comes cheap. Crossing and double-crossing is the rule of the game.

Many a hijacker has been robbed of his "roll" by a preying confederate. Those who resist meet a common end.

Their bodies are dumped into the river.

Of the victims the alley simply says:

"Yep, they bumped him off. His luck was cold."

WOMEN WRITE VOTING MANUAL

Demo Body Completes Copy For Speakers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—For the use of women voters and speakers a special manual is to be issued within a few days, the democratic national committee announced today.

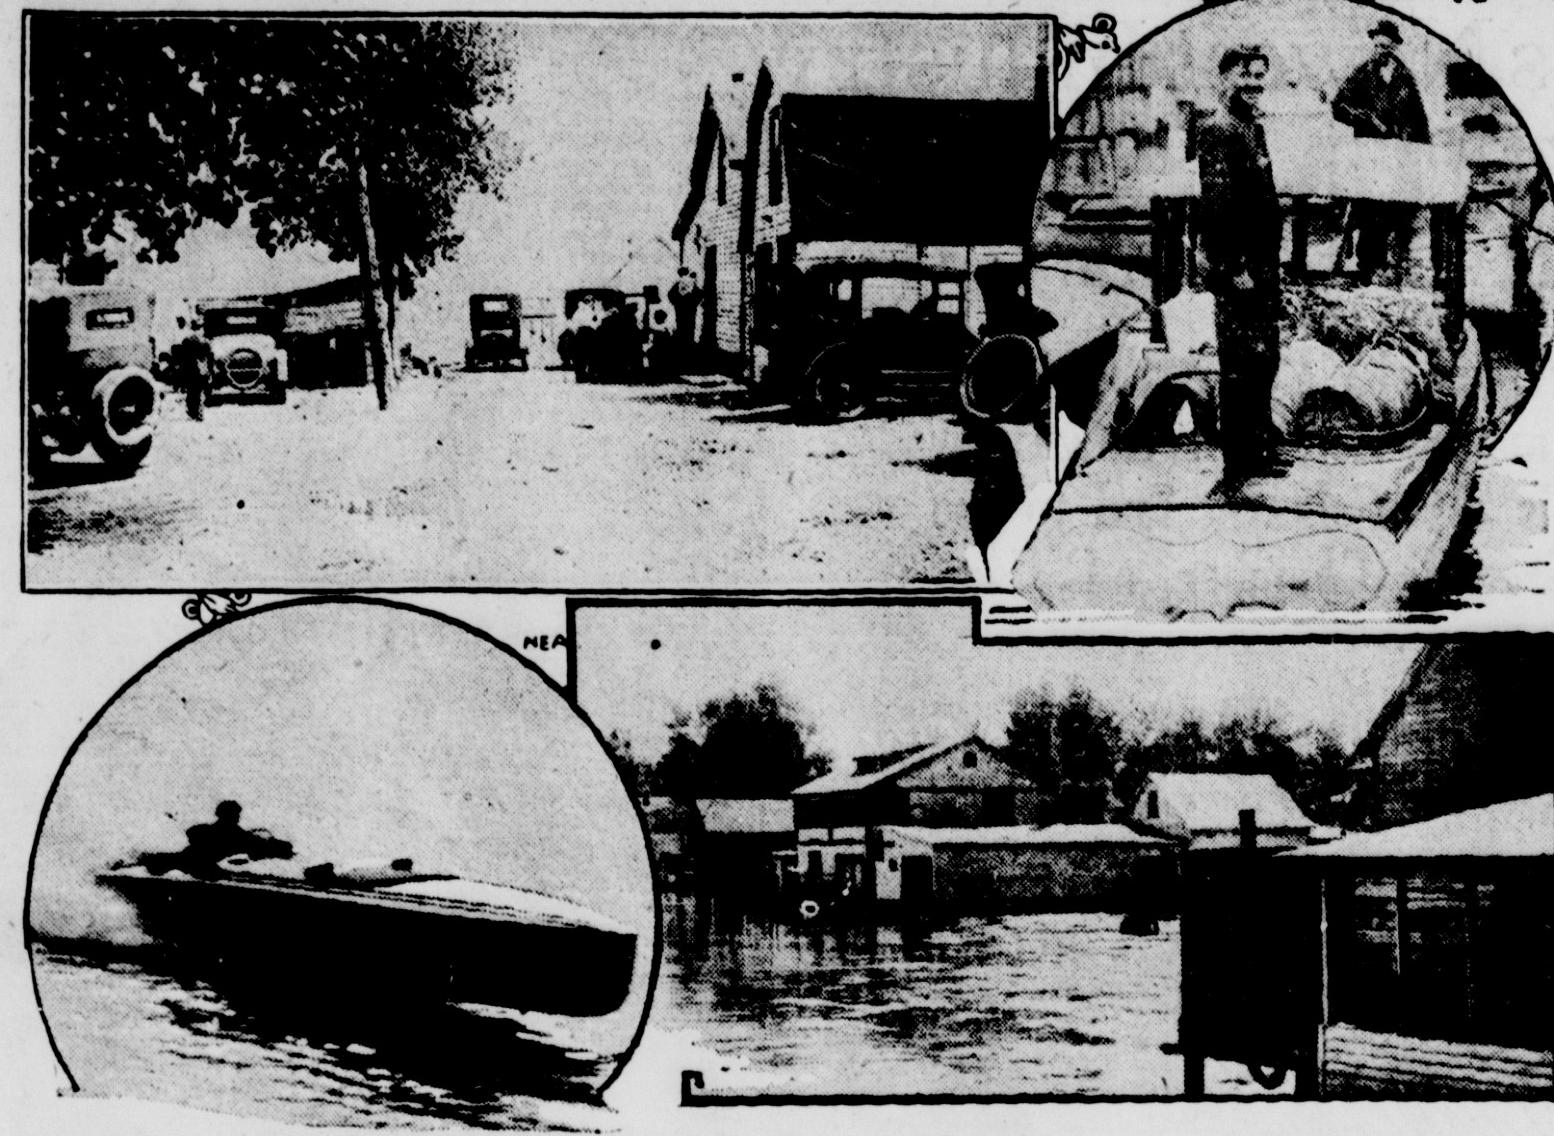

Prominent democratic women have contributed articles for the book. They include Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt of New York, Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, vice chairman of the democratic national committee; Mrs. Isotta Jewell Brown "Ma" Ferguson, democratic candidate for governor of Texas; Mrs. Halsey W. Wilson, director of the schools of democracy; Mrs. Kellogg Fairbanks, Mrs. William Atherton Dupuy and Mrs. Blair Banister, who is editor of the manual.

The chief issues in which women are interested in the campaign will be set forth as honesty in government, the tariff, foreign relations, comparison of the records of the two old line parties in sponsoring social legislation, a comparison of the labor records and the civil service scandals of the republican administration.

NEW ORANGE CHURCH ABOUT COMPLETED

ORANGE, Sept. 17.—Work of constructing the new Orange Methodist church is well advanced. The framework and outside walls of the building were completed Saturday. It is thought that the building will be ready for use in two or three weeks. In the meantime, services are being held in the Ellis store in Bland addition.

Rockefeller Gift to Be Used for Conservation

PARIS, Sept. 17.—Extensive conservation and some important restoration of the Rheims Cathedral, Versailles and Fontainebleau will be undertaken soon with funds provided for this purpose by the million dollar Rockefeller gift to France.

M. Rene Gadan, a director of the Beaux-Arts, has announced the plans drawn up by the special committee composed of Ambassador Jusserand, M. Hanotiaux, Herman J. Harjes, and Wells Bosworth, Rockefeller's architect.

The committee will respect the wishes of Mr. Rockefeller to devote the funds to conservation rather than restoration in the hope that restoration may be possible later, but in many cases the extensive repairs planned will be in the nature of restoration. Under the program a great and timely work will be done to perpetuate the glories of these places of 600,000 francs.

To Replace Rheims Roof

The roof of the Rheims Cathedral will be replaced exactly as it was before the war, a work that cannot fail to excite universal approval. The roof will cost approximately 5,000,000 francs and completion will require about five years. The Beaux-Arts administration is particularly pleased at this prospect, because until Mr. Rockefeller made his gift, the plans were for a temporary flat roof.

The maintenance of the chateau at Versailles is now assured, and work on its conservation will be started immediately. The Louis XIII wing will be restored, the marble court repaired, the facades on the park side restored, and also the rooms on the ground floor. This work will cost seven or eight million francs and a yearly sum of 1,500,000 francs will be devoted to maintenance.

Extensive Improvements

The gardens of Versailles and the Trianon will be extensively improved. Trees will be carefully pruned and

12 DEAD WHEN MINE BLOWS UP

Subtle No. 5, Kemmer, Wyo. Is Wrecked

KEMMER, Wyo., Sept. 17.—Twelve men were rescued from Subtle mine number 5, at an early hour this morning after being miraculously saved from death in the explosion which wrecked the mine at noon yesterday.

Another happy work will be the restoration of Marie Antoinette's theater in the Petit Trianon at an expense of 600,000 francs.

Estimates of the Kemmer Coal company, owners of the property, place the number of men entombed by the blast at 47. There estimates had previously placed the number as high as 81.

It is believed the remaining 35 perished in the explosion. Bodies of three, one headless, were located a short distance from the main mine entrance. Twelve men are known to have been on their way to the surface of the mine for the noon hour at the time of the explosion. It is believed they were thrown to the bottom and killed.

LaFollette hopes to find in unions there is strength.

GERMAN DIPLOMAT TO REMAIN AT POST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Dr. Otto von Wiedfeldt, the German ambassador, whose retirement on Sept. 15 had been announced, will retain his post indefinitely. It was understood that the ambassador was induced by the German government to withdraw his request, made at the time of his appointment, that he be permitted to retire at this time, as it was felt that German interests could not be properly served if a new and inexperienced diplomat were to replace him during the present period of economic reconstruction in Germany.

GRAYSON COUNTY PIONEER IS DEAD

SHERMAN, Sept. 17.—Word was received in Sherman of the death of Mrs. Margaret Frances Sears Aldridge, one of the pioneer women of Grayson county, who died suddenly at the home of a son in Oklahoma, whom she was visiting. She was a sister of Mrs. William Pennington of Whitewright, and was the daughter of the late Christopher and Mary Sears, who located in the eastern part of the county in 1850, coming here from Alabama. After her marriage she lived at Whitesboro up to the time of the death of her husband several years ago.

2 SLAIN, SCORE HURT IN STORM

Cyclonic Wind Sweeps Through Georgia

MACON, Ga., Sept. 17.—Two were dead and a score injured as a result of a severe rain and wind storm which swept south Georgia in the past 24 hours.

The wind reached cyclonic proportions at Brownston, where one person was killed and several injured. Houses were blown down, trees uprooted and crops in that section beaten to the ground.

Communication Crippled

At Nashville, Georgia, trees and telephone poles were blown down. The town's light and telephone service was put out of commission. R. M. Chism, a merchant, was killed when he came in contact with a live wire which had been torn loose by the wind.

Other towns in south Georgia reported heavy property losses.

Many of the towns in the storm area were cut off from communication all wires being down.

Highways were being blocked with fallen trees or flooded by overflowing water from creeks and rivers. Flood warnings were issued by the weather bureau here.

If hell is paved with good intentions, as current rumor says, then the sidewalks must be made of pre-election promises.

HOUSTON PRISON HURT IN STORM NOW UNDER FIRE

Youth Charges Cruel Treatment at Farm

HOUSTON, Sept. 17.—Sweeping investigations were to be launched today into conditions at the city's prison farm, following charges by Dr. C. Spencer, Jr., 24, that he had been brutally treated.

Spencer charged that prisoners were chained to their cots and beaten for minor offenses.

Voluntary Prisoner

Spencer said that he voluntarily went to the farm in an effort to cure the narcotic habit and that he was beaten because he could not work on account of sickness.

Visited by his mother, who reported that he had been brutally beaten, Spencer's father went before city commissioners and secured the release of his son. Prisoners at the farm are expected to testify in the investigation to be launched.

RAIN AT GROESBECK PROVES BENEFICIAL

GROESBECK, Sept. 17.—A steady rain falling through two days with brief intermissions, has filled the streams with water for livestock and broken a drought that has lasted through the entire summer. The rains will prove beneficial in many ways and while it came too late to be of material benefit to cotton, it has done very little damage to the ungathered portion of the crop.

CONFIDENCE IS DAVIS' TONE NOW

Demo Candidate Swings Back Through West

EN ROUTE WITH JOHN W. DAVIS TO DES MOINES, Sept. 17.—A new John W. Davis was swinging through Iowa on his last invasion of the west.

In the two and half weeks, Davis has spent in the west, his advisers on the trip have seen him change from a retiring lawyer, reluctantly facing his audiences into a militant crusader with a message.

Tonic for Davis

"The west has acted like a tonic on Davis," said Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, former chairman of the democratic national committee, who is accompanying Davis on the trip.

"I have never seen such a change come over a man in so brief a time. Frankly, when Davis left New York, he felt that he was leading a forlorn hope, but he carried on like a good soldier shouldering the responsibilities that had been thrust upon him by his party."

"Since coming west and getting in contact with the people Davis has grown daily in enthusiasm until today he is a militant crusader for the cause of honest government with an abiding confidence of victory."

"I have watched Davis in all his speeches. It has been an amazing study in psychology."

"In every speech his tone has grown bolder and more confident. He no longer says 'if I am elected president.' He says 'I will be elected.'

AT THE LIBERTY

The Liberty theater now opens at 10 o'clock each morning. Manager J. P. Pittman announced today. The first opening was held yesterday morning and will continue through the winter. "Broken Hearts of Broadway" with Colleen Moore starring is running today.

AT THE CAMEO

"The Fool's Awakening" will be shown at the Cameo theater starting today. The story deals with John Briggs, a young Englishman of humble parentage who impersonates Alexis Triton, an officer whose diary he finds and publishes as his own. His fame is startling, and still keeping his secret, he marries Olivia Gale, an heiress. Her discovery of his deceit results in her leaving him. This is followed by a serious accident to Briggs who is almost killed. Myra, Olivia's companion and maid, is the means of bringing the two together again, for Briggs does not think he can ever win back his wife, and attempts suicide rather than live without her. The thrills that lead up to the climax of forgiveness keep the audience interested throughout the production, which is full of startling situations.

WANDERER OF THE WASTE LAND

Reviewing "Wanderer of the Waste Land" now showing at the Peoples, simply as a motion picture is somewhat of a waste of time and words. Zane Grey is a definite, known quantity to most exhibitors—and many ask to know no more than his name. In the present cast they have in addition to the concrete assurance of Zane Grey's name the known standards of Paramount, the direction of Levin Willat, and a cast of high excellence.

But as a "motion picture plus" too much cannot be said about "Wanderer of the Wasteland" and its value to the box office. "Done in Technicolor" from the opening title to the final fade-out, we have for once an example of a story big enough and human enough to rise above the color, and at the same time, a story that gave the color every opportunity to see at its best.

As a motion picture "Wanderer of the Wasteland" is a very good Zane Grey outdoor western, as an outdoor romance done entirely in nature's hues it becomes a "show" worthy of extra pressure exploitation and special presentation.

CARL MAGEE BEATEN FOR U. S. SENATOR

SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 17.—Samuel G. Bratton, judge of the New Mexico supreme court, won the democratic nomination for United States senator on the fifth ballot after being trailed closely throughout the balloting by Carl C. Magee, editor of the New Mexico State Tribune, a Scripps-Howard newspaper.

SHOE COMPANY HEAD, 82 YEARS OLD, DEAD

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—William L. Douglas, former governor of Massachusetts and owner of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company, died in his 82nd year at a hospital here early today.

Death came after a long illness during the latter stages of which he submitted to two operations.

OUT OUR WAY

By WILLIAMS

quite an attraction. His splendid stock was equalled only by his generosity in doling it out to guests; and, as might be expected in this case, he made many friends.

Everett's parties in his million-dollar home soon gained him much popularity. He was city treasurer for a time.

He was a warm friend of the late Andrew Carnegie. Carnegie often visited at the Everett home. Andrew, who knew how to make friends, as well as money, took one look at Everett's cellar of liquor and thereafter every year sent Everett a case of exceedingly rare Scotch whiskey.

With a loving wife and children and surrounded by hosts of friends, Everett appeared, for a time, to enjoy real happiness.

Fearful Death

But to his most intimate friends he confided his one fear—that of death. Everett's dread of the hand of death tormented him by day and by night.

And by courting Bacchus which brought much merriment, resounding laughter and song into his home, Everett sought to shut out thought of the unwelcome visitor.

In 1916 came the first blow. Death took Mrs. Alice Everett, his wife. He was left stunned and lonesome. His fear of death grew and the torment became more acute. Parties became fewer. Friends dropped away.

Finally he was 82, and although he knew the inevitable was not far off, the knowledge comforted him in no way but only added to his suffering.

The Last Party

One evening, about three years ago, a number of friends of the wealthy banker received sudden summons to the Everett home. One of Everett's old time entertainments was the next day Everett died.

Roomers who now occupy the old mansion are told this story of the former banker. They are shown the secret staircase. They are told that there also is a secret underground tunnel which used to connect the house with the Wade home several hundred feet distant on an adjoining lot.

A large blood-red mahogany panel slides open, revealing the staircase. It is musty and very dirty. The roomers speculate on its former use.

The Ghost

Then LuLu, the colored maid, adds to the wonderment by declaring positively, "I done saw Mistra Everett last night, walking right along here."

She says he walks wearily through

Ghost of Man Who Feared Death Prowls at Night In Million Dollar Mans

BY JULIAN SNYDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,

All that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave

Await like th' inevitable hour—

The paths of glory lead but to the grave."

"Elegy"—By Thomas Gray.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—There is one particular old dingy stone mansion in Cleveland's ancient "street of gold"—Euclid avenue, about which is a certain air of mystery.

Like many old buildings of note, it has its legends or traditions. These legends or traditions, perhaps based more or less on fact, are being passed on by the old servants of the place to the roomers who now occupy the palatial residence.

If Lulu Evans, the colored maid, is to be believed, the ghost of the former owner, now dead, may be seen often, emerging from the secret staircase that passes from the spacious dining room to a large chamber above or strolling along the street, the great corridors stirred in blue dressing gown and slippers.

The Mansion

The mansion in question was the stockholders of the Western Union Telegraph company.

Everett, known as a hard worker, also was known as a royal spender. He opened his palatial 30-room home with a "house warming" that was the sensation of the season. He was proud of his home. He showed his guests through the 20 rooms on the first floors finished in as many different kinds of wood. One parlor is of rare Moorish design, another English, a third German, a fourth Japanese, and so on.

Everett's stock of rare wines, whiskies and champagne also proved

TRADE ACTIVITY CONTINUES RISE

Renewed Ease in Money, Rail Receipts

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Continued signs of improving conditions in industry and renewed ease in the money market were matters of interest in business and financial quarters last week.

That activity continued to be on a larger scale than existed during the summer was made evident by the latest statistics of railroad car loadings.

Continuing their consistent increase, loading rose in the week ending Aug. 29 to 1,020,000 cars, exceeding the million-car mark for the first time this year.

It was considered significant that whereas loadings out of the early summer ran about 11 percent below those of the corresponding period last year, the showing is now only 7 per cent short of last year's.

Reports from the steel industry indicate that the recovery of August, which resulted in an increase of 36 per cent in ingot production was being maintained.

Conditions were rather spotty and prices still somewhat steady but production continued in the neighborhood of 55 percent of capacity.

An increase in the United States Steel Corporation's unfilled orders during August came as a surprise.

The increase was a small one and left bookings close to the lowest point since the war started; but another small decrease had been expected.

This turn followed a decline that began last March.

A sharp reaction in cotton prices attracted considerable attention. The government report on crop conditions as of Sept. 2 reduced the previous estimate of out-turn to 12,787,000 bales or 169,000,000 bales.

Nevertheless, selling soon came into the market and carried prices off about 2 1/2 cents, to new lows for the year. The spot commodity at New York sold down to 23.30 cents. The price compares with 35.65 cents in January.

Realization that the new crop would bring an ample supply of cotton and free hedge selling against the expected heavy ginnings of the next few months were considered responsible for the weakness.

While the immediate effects of such reaction were unsettling, it was pointed out that the turn of events was bringing the textile industry what it really needs, that is a plentiful supply of raw material at reasonable prices.

Government Control Of English Banks Sought

LONDON, Sept. 17.—What the small, compact and highly "intellectual" Independent Labor Party says today, the large, slow, ox-like British labor party endeavors more and less successfully to carry out tomorrow.

At any rate, that's the prevailing in English politics and explains the surprise and interest manifested last at the announcement that I. L. P. has "come out for" government control of the Great English banks.

Nothing may come of it, nevertheless the fact that the I. L. P. has declared for it means that the astute Clifford Allen—who is in the Prime Minister's Cabinet House and the Czar of the I. L. P.—thinks that the time is ripe to protect the scheme interests to meet in the directors' room of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning to discuss the proposed report of Examiner Keeler in the consolidated grain cases.

Copies of exceptions to be filed have been distributed by Secretary F. A. Leffingwell. Corrections of differential complained of by Oklahoma officials, is proposed.

"They should be our servants."

The banks have controlled the policy of the government but we propose that the government should control the banks and adopt scientific policy of monetary reform in the interests of trade, industry and unemployment.

"Unemployment can be cured but this involves regulation of banking and credit."

Apart, too, from its effect upon this problem of unemployment we propose that the state should control banking because that would give the government a determining voice in saying when and how particular industries should be encouraged or discouraged.

"To control the speed and direction of credit in a world of luxury and necessity trades, is of the greatest importance if we are to commence to run industry according to a common plan with a definitely thought-out design."

Moreover, it is foolish to continue a system by which banks accept the people's money on deposit at a small rate of interest and then lend it out at a larger rate.

"Why should that profitable transaction be undertaken by private banks which all the time rely upon the state to come to their aid in a moment of financial crisis?"

It is difficult to see how this program can be advanced without almost immediately forfeiting the support of the Liberals who not only the Ointment and the Soap.—Adv.

BOY PRISONER MAKES ESCAPE

Spectacular Get-Away Is Made by 15-Year-Old

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 17.—A 15-year-old boy is at liberty somewhere in Fort Worth today after making a spectacular getaway from Central Police station detectives.

Arrested by Detectives McKinney and Flake and Special Patrolman Bailey, the youth with another was taken to the station to be locked up on charges of theft of automobile accessories. The officers allege they came upon the boys in the act of removing headlights from one automobile.

Copies of exceptions to be filed have been distributed by Secretary F. A. Leffingwell. Corrections of differential complained of by Oklahoma officials, is proposed.

HOUSTON CHANNEL DRAGGED FOR BODY

HOUSTON, Sept. 17.—Employees of the United Dredging Company, assisted by ambulance men of this city, are dragging the Houston Ship channel for the body of Edward Bartelson, who is believed to have fallen from a dredge last Thursday night. Bartelson was not missed by the other members of the crew until several hours after the accident is supposed to have happened. Dynamite will be used to continue the search.

No evidence of foul play has been uncovered.

A second victim within one day of the Ship channel here, Albert Love, negro, was found in the channel Friday, a few hours after he fell into the waters.

Drapery Form Frames for Windows, With Natural Setting Outside

SIMPLE, COLORFUL HANGINGS ON THE WINDOWS AND DOORWAY OF THIS ROOM ENHANCE ITS BEAUTY AND EFFECTIVENESS.

Drapery may be either wonderful adornments or amazing dust catchers. Therefore, great discretion is needed in hanging them.

Windows and wide open doorways are about the only places suitable for draperies, and even the doorways are gradually being eliminated for this use. Instead of wide open doorways, it is best to have sliding doors, or narrow doorways. For it is here that heavy hangings collect dust and make cleaning so much more difficult.

Window hangings are the main attractions toward enhancing the beauty of the outside scene. They make the window an imposing and picturesque frame, just as it should be.

But the trouble with many windows is that they are overdraped, which is worse than being underdraped. There is too much frame, too much color, too much of hangings to distract attention from anything else inside and outside the room.

Nothing Gorgeous

Simplicity, as in everything else, is the keynote in hangings. A simple hanging at either end of a window, or group of windows, from the window top to a few inches from the floor or a little below the window frame, is effective.

Drawn together at each side, the hangings concentrate the colors in their design and show up even better than when they are spread across.

Instead of shades, window hangings are used. They are colorful frames in the daytime, and at night when drawn together they make for privacy as well as effect an atmospheric background for the bedrooms.

From the outside, window hangings help toward the appearance of the entire house. They should conform in design and color, even though they are not in the same room, if the rooms happen to be on the same floor and along the same outside wall.

Unity Necessary

But in case of rooms upstairs and down, the hangings may differ. The living room hangings, for instance, may conform with the decorative design of that room. And the hangings for the bedrooms upstairs, although they are on the same outside wall, may be altogether different, just so that

PRESIDENTS OF CLUBS TO MEET

Schedules of Leagues To End September 29

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Arrangements for the 1924 world's series, such as can be undertaken before the winning teams are known, will be made here Sunday at a meeting of the presidents of the six contending clubs and Commissioner Landis.

The National league season closes September 29, and the American League schedule ends the following day. The series could hardly be started without one day of rest for the players, so it is improbable that the series will start before October 2.

League Prefixes Overlooked

In order to evade a gamble with treacherous October weather, the games will be played as successively as weather conditions permit. If Detroit does not play the American League end of the league, the teams could make overnight jumps and play on successive days. Under the present arrangement, with four games out of seven to win the series, the strain of traveling is not like it used to be when the nine-game plan prevailed.

In calling the meeting of the contending club owners, Commissioner Landis failed to include an invitation to the presidents of the two leagues, John A. Heydler and Ban Johnson. The critics, remembering the wrath that Ban Johnson went into last year when he was overlooked, are looking to another warm winter of play and a revival of the Landis-Johnson feud.

Senators Lead by Half Game

By splitting even in a double header with the Reds while the Brooklyn Robins were taking an awful pasting from the St. Louis Cardinals, the New York Giants increased their lead to a game and a half over the Robins. The Pirates broke even against the Phils but gained a half game on Brooklyn and are now only four points behind the Robins. The Giants are holding a lead of 11 points over Brooklyn.

While the Yankees were rained out of competition in St. Louis the Washington Senators beat the Indians and got a half game lead of three points over the Yankees. The Detroit Tigers took a fine mauling from the Athletics and fell 4-12 games behind the Yankees.

Harry Mallen of Los Angeles brought a 528-lb. broadbill swordfish to gaff in forty-eight minutes on August 8, 1924, at Catalina Island. This broke the world's record catch of 474 lbs. set in 1923 by A. R. Martin. Mallen used the regulation short rod, reel and 24-thread line and harpoon bait. By making this remarkable catch Harry becomes the whole show in the famous Tuna club at Avalon. The big fish had a sword four feet long, and dented the side of Mallen's boat and disabled the propeller in its final plunge.

King George of England is a first-rate shot and when Prince of Wales was ranked seventh of all living shots! Every year on August 12 His Majesty beats it to Scotland and shoots grouse, pheasants, partridges and so forth. Notice that the king uses the "straight-left-arm" position which he was one of the first to adopt.

Katie McRae, a nineteen-year-old soft ball player of Canada, made an unassisted triple play this year. Now Bill Wazembaga doesn't feel so chesty.

STARTED ONLY SIX YEARS AGO

White Sox Catcher Ideal of 'Muddy'

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—"He's the greatest catcher in baseball."

It was Ray Schalk, famous backstop of the Chicago White Sox, talking about Muddy Ruel of Washington.

It was a remarkable tribute coming from so brilliant a catcher as Schalk.

Several great plays by Ruel had played havoc with the White Sox's chances, while his timely hitting had made a Washington victory possible.

A wonderful catch of a foul tip, which seemed a physical impossibility when he started after the ball, caused Schalk to enthuse. It had caught the ball at the top of the Chicago dugout, stumbled down a couple of concrete steps and hung onto the ball.

"Ruel has the right system," continued Schalk; "he is in the game every minute and goes after every ball, regardless of the score."

"Not because I play the position, but the catcher is the inspiration of a club. His spirit is largely the spirit of the team. Ruel has helped put the pennant fight in Washington."

The compliment that Schalk paid Ruel carried back about six years. Ruel at the time was an ambitious youngster, Schalk the wonder man of baseball. That was in 1918.

The previous season the Chicago club had won the American league pennant and beaten the Giants in the World series. Schalk was the sparkplug of the club.

Some idea of Schalk's great worth as a catcher can be gleaned from the averages. The figures show that for 11 consecutive years he has caught 100 or more games. This season has broken this remarkable record. Injuries have kept him under the 100 mark.

In a certain series at New York in 1918, Schalk performed brilliantly in every department of the game. The first two games of the series had been decided by his superior play.

Sitting on the New York bench prior to the third game, Muddy Ruel, then with the Yankees, started talking. In some way the conversation shifted to Schalk and his greatness as a catcher.

"If I ever develop into half as good a catcher as that fellow, I'll be satisfied," said Ruel.

"He's my ideal. They say one should be original but I don't see how a catcher could improve on Schalk's style. He's worth while imitating."

In a great many ways Muddy Ruel is a second Ray Schalk as to style, mannerism and spirit.

Eight years have passed and the catcher Ruel set out to imitate, pronounces the Washington backstop the greatest catcher in baseball.

Rather a strange coincidence.

Another Day In the Majors

White Sox Catcher Ideal of 'Muddy'

YESTERDAY'S hero—Jim Bottomley, Cardinal first baseman, smashed in 12 of his team's 17 runs, establishing a new major league record. Bottomley got six hits, two of which were home runs. The Cardinals had little difficulty in defeating the Dodgers, 17 to 3, pushing them a little farther from the league-leading Giants.

The Senators went into the lead by defeating Cleveland 6 to 2, and the Yankees remained idle owing to rain at St. Louis.

The Giants leaped farther into the lead in the National by splitting a pair of games with Cincinnati while Brooklyn was losing. McQuillan won for the Giants, 5 to 1, while May let down the Giants in the second, 3 to 1.

The Pirates broke even in a double bill with Philadelphia, losing the first 6 to 5, and winning the second 13 to 7.

The Cubs went into fourth place in the National league by winning a double header from Boston, 8 to 3 and 4 to 2.

Sheely tripled in the first inning with the bases closed and the White Sox won from the Red Sox, 8 to 4.

Detroit took a vicious trouncing from the Athletics, 14 to 2.

NO. 12—NICK DELIVERS A PACKAGE

"Your mother wanted th' to get here before you went to the party."

"Mammy!" said Cutie Cottontail one day. "This is the day Charlie Chipmunk asked me to go to his birthday party."

"That's so, Cutie," said Mrs. Cottontail as she finished cutting off the edges of the carrot pie she was making and put it into the oven. "I almost forgot about it."

"And I haven't any present for him," said Cutie. "I can't go to his party without taking him a birthday present, can I?"

"No, that wouldn't do, Cutie," said his mother. "I'm going down street now to Nancy, Nick & Company's store to get you some new clothes to start to school in next week."

"And while I'm out I can buy you a nice present for Charlie. I think something to wear would be nice, don't you?"

"Yes, I suppose so," said Cutie, but really he was thinking, "I guess Charlie would rather have a knife or a box of candy or a salve or something."

"Goodby, Cutie," she said in a few minutes. "I'll be home as soon as I can. I suppose I ought to take you along to get you fitted, but you'll have to stay at home and see that my pie doesn't burn. Goodby."

And there was Nick with a box.

"Oh, Mammy!" he said when he came home. "I had the best time. Mrs. Chipmunk said to tell you that that was the nicest birthday present Charlie ever got. She gave me four helpings of ice cream and—"

"Birthday present!" cried Mrs. Cottontail. "Why, here's your birthday present! I bought Cutie a necklace. I'm sorry I couldn't get back in time. What on earth did you take?"

"Why, Nick brought a box and said it was the party and—"

"What!" shrieked Mrs. Cottontail. "That was your new suit and you were to wear it."

It was nice and brown, so he turned out the fire.

Suddenly he looked at the clock and it said ten minutes to two. Just ten minutes to party time!

SHIPPING HELD UP IN CANAL

Activities Confined to Port Arthur Alone

Shipping activities in Sabine district today were mainly confined to Port Arthur, for with the sunken Italian motorship Isonzo obstructing the Sabine-Neches canal, ships navigation to points beyond Port Arthur is impossible.

With the arrival of the three vessels in port this morning, the number of ships at local wharves totals ten. Among these arrivals were included the British tanker Knockfiernia, which came in from New Castle and Thames, England, to load out a cargo of case oil at the Texas Company docks. The Knockfiernia is agented by the Sydney C. Collin company.

The Texas Company tanker New Jersey is also loading out at the Texas Company terminals, having arrived this morning from Delaware River. The Gulf company tanker Winifred came in from Galveston and is taking on cargo at the company's docks.

Another British tanker, the Wynerie, which is also agented by the Sydney C. Collin company, is anchored at Sabine awaiting further orders due to the blockade of the canal. The Wynerie is scheduled to load out at Smith's Bluff.

The steamer Jeff Davis, agented by the Lykes-Sgtovich agency, is reported up the canal on her way to Port Neches to take on cargo, but she will probably have to dock at Sabine or at Port Arthur until passage through the canal can be obtained.

Roland Colman Scores Again in Tarnish

ROLAND COLMAN AND MAY McAVOY

By JACK JUNGMEYER

NEA Service Writer

HOPE, Sept. 17.—A girl whose own father, life-long rogue, makes her reluctant to marry the man she loves in the fear that he might turn out of the same stripe—such is the story of "Tarnish."

She sees the old man as a portent of the young. She and her mother have been bitterly victimized by this aged hedonist, a thoroughly irresponsible creature of the type known among all women as "old fogies."

Her suitor is already "tarnished," as the monogamist refers to anyone whose sex experiences antedate the first marriage. But genuine love, in his own eyes, has refurbished him. And the girl, too, is inclined so to evaluate him until the rival party of a former immorality brings don't.

"Tarnish," screened from the Emery stage play for Samuel Goldwyn by George Fitzmaurice, is not the conventional problem of play, but it contains the essence of most problem plays—the conflict arising from the double standard, which the modern woman is seriously trying to efface.

Woman's marital problem, so long as the dual standard persists, is as a minor character in the play expresses it. "To find an ugly tarnished men who can be cleanly cleansed."

The film is done with close fidelity of the original in the adaptation made by Frances Marion. It is more intimate and meaty than most of the pictures directed by George Fitzmaurice. And it is exceptional for its fine characterization, as in the roles done by Ronald Colman, May McAvoy, Marie Prevost and Albert Gran.

Colman, who first loomed up with Lillian Gish in "The White Sister," brings understanding and fine acting to his part. Colman's playing has a haunting quality. Adroitly he shades the smoky to assure and win the girl he wants, to marry and blend with it a polite flattery toward his old flame which gets him into difficulties. This role in "Tarnish" won him a five-year contract with Samuel Goldwyn.

Port Arthur's Cigar Factory Opens Office for Orders, Floods City With First Smoke

ARDNER-LEE PRODUCT OUT

3 Cigars To Be Made by Local Manufacturers

Fragrant incense from Port Arthur's own smokes were placed in the reach of the masses today with the formal opening, for filling orders in bulk, of Port Arthur's first cigar factory by Ardner and Lee.

For more than a month the factory, at 1800 Sixth street, has been hard at work getting a big stock of cigars accumulated ahead for today's event.

Permit Received

Government factory permit has been secured and Port Arthur's newest product goes out to the world with a Port Arthur label, dressed in attractive seals and trade-mark boxes.

Port Arthur retail counters are backing the Ardner and Lee brand.

"We are greatly pleased with prospects here," Fred Ardner, senior member of the firm, declared today. "In fact, we had no occasion to feel otherwise from the first day we made decision to locate new plant here."

From this beginning will result an ultimate cigar manufacturing capacity equal to any in the southwest, it was prophesied today.

Employee List Grows

The factory began manufacturing operations with but a few employees. These were not sufficient, and from time to time additional employees have been added, among them three Port Arthur women cigar makers who Ardner says have demonstrated their ability to "roll a mean cigar." These women already were professional cigar makers.

"This proves that no matter what kind of an industrial plant may come to Port Arthur, it will find experienced and expert help awaiting its coming," Ardner said.

Three brands which have made a great appeal among Port Arthur smokers formally took their places among the world's best smokes.

Three Brands Made

These are Univoco, Ardner & Lee, and Mi-Lu. They will fill every demand, ranging from that for a popular 5-cent smoke through the intermediate grades to three for half a dollar.

"Of course, they are all worth more according to tobacco standards," Ardner declared, "but we are able to put out an exceptionally high grade through a balanced organization, nearness to tobacco supply centers add to a determination to give smokers something just a little better for just a little bit less."

Eventually, Ardner predicted, the factory will grow until it has two score or more employees rolling Port Arthur's own.

"We are not attempting to go too fast. Our growth will be gradual and sure. We will take care of local needs first, gradually extending our field until later, it is our plan to enter the jobbing field with our own products through a dozen central states."

Use Imported Tobacco

Domestic and imported tobaccos, none but the best of each, will be used in manufacturing the brands, Ardner said, each of which is individual and will fill its field "patent and completely."

With thousands of cigars made up ahead, the company is ready now to meet the anticipated popular demand, and already the Port Arthur public is demanding access to the new producer through retail cigar counters, Ardner said.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler moved into Ohio today to begin a three-day campaign against former Attorney General Daugherty whom he drove from cabinet office. In the state where Daugherty was the dominating political influence for years, the independent vice presidential candidate came to lay before voters evidence he uncovered as senate investigator of the department of justice.

Daugherty exemplified the boss rule of the present administration and although he is gone, his henchmen remain as subordinates in office to carry on his work," Wheeler declared in explanation of his Ohio campaign. "His influence still lives in Washington through his workers and

Success in Life Depends On The Stomach

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." And it is just as true that the citizen in ordinary life is dependent upon his stomach. Those who are constantly suffering from indigestion, constipation, gas on the stomach, and other distressing ailments invite defeat from every point, and usually are failures in business and socially.

If you are one of these sufferers relief is offered and guaranteed by the makers of Smith Bros' M. A. C. Stomach Tonic, which is sold on the positive guarantee or the refund of the price ($1.25) if the first bottle fails to give you satisfactory relief. Get a bottle today.

bad as was A. Mitchell Palmer in the height of his lawless career, he looked like 30 cents compared with Daugherty and his forty thieves."

Plane Unchanged

Wheeler received reports from his leaders in the state that he "may expect anything from Daugherty's friends here," but he remained unswayed in his announced decision to make Daugherty the bunt of his attack in speeches in Cleveland, Toledo, Dayton, Columbus and Cincinnati.

Encouraging reports were received by Wheeler concerning prospects of the LaFollette ticket in Pennsylvania and Ohio. Labor leaders informed him he may count on second place in Allegheny county of which Pittsburgh is the center.

In Ohio, railroad brotherhood officers reported LaFollette has a chance of carrying the state.
